\Rightarrow Evaluate independence, Assess competence to perform audit, Ability to use due care

APES 110 Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants

a) Responsibility to act in the public interest from a macro perspective; b) Fundamental principles for

• •	requirements for members in public practi	• •
1) Circumstances may lead fundamental principles a) Integrity * Straightforward and honest in professional and business relationships b) Objectivity	A member shall not knowingly be associated with reports, returns, communications or other information where the Member believes that the information contains a materially false or misleading statement Not to compromise their professional or business judgment because of bias, conflict of interest or the undue	 Evaluate the threats: Self-interest (financial or other interest); Self-review (not appropriately evaluating judgments or work performed); Advocacy (promote client position) Familiarity (long or close relationship); Intimidation (deterred
c) Professional competence and due care * There is continuous	influence of others Maintain professional knowledge and skill [and] act diligently in accordance with applicable technical and professional standards	from acting appropriately due to actual or perceived pressure) 3) Eliminate or reduce the development of this profession d) Confidentiality * Exception if legal requirement to disclose	Refrain from disclosing or using confidential information	threats with safeguards - Created by the profession, e.g. education, CPD
e) Professional behaviour	Comply with relevant laws and regulations and avoid any action or omission that may bring discredit to the profession	requirements, professional standards - Developed by the firm – general , e.g. quality control, policies and
	Do not claim to provide services they cannot provide, or qualifications they do not possess, or experience they do not have Do not undermine the reputation of,	procedures - Developed by the firm – Engagement specific, e.g. personnel rotation, professional review
Independence * not a fundamental principle	or quality of work produced by, others Independence of mind ⇒ Ensure not affected by influences that compromise professional judgment ('State of mind') Independence in appearance ⇒ Avoid the appearance (look) that integrity, objectivity and professional skepticism has been compromised [Apply 'reasonable person test' on the specific facts and circumstances]	THREATS Financial interests; Loan and guarantees; Close business, family, and personal relationships; Employment relationships; Long association; Gifts and hospitality

SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

Financial report is based on events up to, and conditions existing at, year-end.

However, there are three other key dates, including a) date the financial report is approved by management; b) date of the auditor's report; and c) date that the financial report is publicly released.

- 1
	STEP 1	Period 1 * Events occurring up to the date of the audit report Period 2 * Events occurring after the date of the audit report, but before the financial statements are issued Period 3	If the auditor becomes aware of an adjusting or a non-adjusting event before the date of the auditor's report, the auditor • has full responsibility to consider the event; • discusses the matter with the client; • takes action appropriate to the circumstance. If the auditor becomes aware of an adjusting event after the date of the auditor's report, but before the financial report is issued, the auditor • considers whether the financial report needs changing – is it so material that it is going to change the opinion or the way people view the financial statement and the audit opinion; • discusses the matter with the client; • takes action appropriate to the circumstance. If the auditor becomes aware of an adjusting or a non-adjusting
		* Events discovered after the	event after the date that the company issues the report to the financial statements are	public, the auditor considers whether the event relates to a issued	situation that existed at the audit report date and if so, discusses the matter with the client; and takes appropriate actions in the aircumstance.
ļ	Cul	account ovents are events that	takes appropriate actions in the circumstance.
l	Subsequent events are events that occur between year-end and the date of the auditor's report or facts that are discovered after the date of the auditor's report.
İ		a) Adjusting events	Because they can affect estimates in financial report or indicate
		* Events that provide	that the going concern assumption is not appropriate, the additional evidence with	accounting treatment is to adjust the amount recognised in the
		and the state of t
		respect to the conditions	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date,
		that existed at year-end	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material.
		that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, that existed at year-end	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful
		that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance
		that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable
	EP 2	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's attention after year-end)	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation at year-end Deterioration in operating results after year-end that means that the going concern is not appropriate.
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's attention after year-end) b) Non-adjusting events	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation at year-end Deterioration in operating results after year-end that means that the going concern is not appropriate. Because they do not result in changes to the amounts in the
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's attention after year-end) b) Non-adjusting events * Events that provide	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation at year-end Deterioration in operating results after year-end that means that the going concern is not appropriate. Because they do not result in changes to the amounts in the financial report, it does not require accounts to be adjusted;
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's attention after year-end) b) Non-adjusting events * Events that provide evidence with respect to the	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation at year-end Deterioration in operating results after year-end that means that the going concern is not appropriate. Because they do not result in changes to the amounts in the financial report, it does not require accounts to be adjusted; however, might be so significant to require disclosure.
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's attention after year-end) b) Non-adjusting events * Events that provide	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation at year-end Deterioration in operating results after year-end that means that the going concern is not appropriate. Because they do not result in changes to the amounts in the financial report, it does not require accounts to be adjusted;
	EP	that existed at year-end (It does not matter if it only came to the auditor's attention after year-end) b) Non-adjusting events * Events that provide evidence with respect to the conditions that are	reports to reflect the situation that existed at balance date, given the additional information, where material. For example, Bankruptcy of customer after year-end which would be considered when evaluating the provision for doubtful debts. If a customer is declared insolvent after balance date, that indicates that the amount was not collectable at the end of the reporting period, so that adjustment is required to show that the receivable was not collectable Amount received for an insurance claim in negotiation at year-end Deterioration in operating results after year-end that means that the going concern is not appropriate. Because they do not result in changes to the amounts in the financial report, it does not require accounts to be adjusted; however, might be so significant to require disclosure. Otherwise, these new information about something that did not	